NEW-HAYEN, June 2.—The Yaie-Brown baseball game

In the latter part of the sixth inning Hubbard's mask a bent by a ball, and his forehead was badly cut, but pluckily played on. The conspicuous feature of the me was the batting of Childs and Terey for Yale, seet as catcher for Brown won frequent appiause by

This game practically gives Yale the championship for a year. She has won all six of the college games and as only two more to play. The playing of her team has enen remarkable, for only three of the nine are old memors. On first base she has been fortunate in taving a orthy successor to Hopkins, '82, in Childs, who has layed without an error, accepting in all games 127 hances out of 127. Hubbard at home has played well, have a contrained by two errors out of sixty-seven chances. Opkins on third has shown coolness and science opping well and throwing swiftly; while Tarry on sec, at has made only five errors. McKec out of forty-me

GOSSIP ABOUT THE AMERICAN CLUB-INTERESTING REGATTAS EXPECTED.

Rufus Hatch, who is a member of the Amercan Yacht Club, said to a TRIBUNE reporter recently that this club was a club to sell yaohts. "If you sell anything," said Mr. Hatch, "wheat, stocks or anything, you have got to have an exchange to do it. One thing that I am going to prochange to do it. One taing that I am going to pro-pose is to have no blackballing: no underhand work—everything shall be done above the table. Men proposed for membership will, I hope, be voted for openly, every voter putting himself on record. Any white man—and by a white man I mean a man white morally and socially—will, I think, be elected." George S. Scoti, vice-commodore of the club, said that he did not think that it was designed to make the club distinctively one for steam-yacht owners. He thought however, that the club would devote itself mainly to the

The result of the Decoration Day regartas has been satisfactory to some yacut owners and diappointing to others. The changes made in the Gracio's headsail have given her a wider jib and more power forward. Some other slight changes have had the effect of causing her to mind her helm in a wonderfully prompt manner. Latham A. Fish, owner of the Grayling, was disap-pointed in the performance of his yacht. He thinks the fault is not in the yacht, however, but in the hasty man-ner in which she was got ready for the regatta on that day. Some changes have been made in her rigging in the last few days, but Mr. Fish is doubtful whether she will be in perfect order in time for the regate of the other slight changes have had the effect of causing her will be in perfect order in time for the regatta of the Atlantic Club on June 19. The Hudson River Yacht Club will hold its ammal regatta on Thesday. The race will be sailed in the Upper Bay. The course will be from the stake boat off "Jake" Schmidt's house at Staten Island, to a stake boat between Fort Lafayette and Coney Island Point, then to the can busy No. 15, off Bay Ridge, then to and around buoy No. 17 on Robbins Reef and thence back to the point of starting. CAPTAIN BOYTON'S EXHIBITIONS.

Captain Paul Boyton gave an exhibition yesterday afternoon with his life saving suit, in the Hudson River, at the foot of West One-hundredand-fifty-fifth-st., in the presence of a large crowd. He paddled to the raft at about 5 o'clock, and first showed that good headway could be made without the paddle by simply resting on the back and using the feet as a propeller, fair progress being possible, if only the hands were used. The construction of a raft from several loose timbers was then accomplished with ease and dispute which called forth hearty applause. Much interest was shown when the store and provisions were produced from the small boat and a meal rapidly prepared upon the raft, Captain Boyton being in the water all the while. When the meal was fluished the next item "Enjoyment Afloat," brella protecting him from the rays of the sun "Carrying a line," is considered by Captain Boyton to be the most important use to which his invention can be put, as by the use of his life-saving suit, a man can carry a line to shore from a ship in distress, no matter how rough the water may be. This was followed by a display of rockets, which were similar to those used as night signals by the French and English Life-Saving Service.

was exemplified by the performer reclining at case upon the water with eiger and newspaper, a large slik um-night signals by the Frencu and English Life-Saving Service.

The final performance was the explosion of a miniature ship. When Captain Boyton had attached the torpedo and lighted toe fuse, his somewhat rapid movement in an opposite direction were followed by a similar withdrawal on the part of the crowd, both on shore and in the many boars. For a few minutes there was nothing to be seen but the blue, curling smoke of the fuse and the constant discharge of they fireworks which had been placed on board and lighted by a small connecting fuse. When the lireworks were exhausted there was a murmur of disappointment and a surging movement of the crowd, followed, instantly by a suppressed cry as the ship was raised for a second completely out of the water. A great flash was seen, a duli booming report, and in a moment which descending covered the water with what a few seconds ago had been a very pretty miniature ship.

POOR SCORES AT CREEDMOOR. Yesterday was the last day for the team to practise at Creedmoor until Thursday next. It is ex-pected that the members will all report for practice at that time. Thus far only ten have reported at the ranges, and yesterday only eight shot over all the dis-tances. Walter Scott was granted leave of absence on Friday evening, and C. W. Hinman withdrew after make ing a total of 96 points out of a possible 105 at the first three ranges. Captain Howard has received a comnunication from F. J. Rabbeth stating that there is possibility of his going to England with the team. The Captain will, in consequence, retain his place until the last moment. If Mr. Itabbeth should be unable to sail on July 19 it is probable that Captain Griffiths will fill the vacancy. The weather and wind were all that could be desired for good shooting yesterday, but, not withstanding these advantages, poor scores were made. Several of the men claimed that their failure to do well was due to the fact that they were compelled to use poor amnunition. The following is a summary of the shooting;

> A STATEMENT CORRECTED. INT TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.

Washington, June 2 .- Henry W. Olds, of the Columbia Boat Club, of Washington, to-day called attention to a statement that arrangements have been completed by the Committee of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen for the National Regatta on the Passale in September. Mr. Olds said this statement had given a number of the Washington oarsmen the impression that the National Regatta had been postponed pression that the National Regatta had been postponed from August 7 and 8, the time agreed on; but it was found upon application to Captain Gibson, of the Columbia Club, who is secretary of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, that no such postponement had been decided upon, nor is it in contemplation. The regatta will be held on August 7 and 8. The Washington oarsmen think it of some consequence that this correction should be made, in view of the controversy that has recently sprang up respecting the date of the Potomac regatta, which was recently fixed at so late a time in the season as to create much dissatisfaction among boating men, who desire that it shall closely follow the National Regatta.

THE AQUEDUCT COMMISSION.

NO MEETING TO BE HELD FOR A FEW DAYS-WHAT SOME OF THE MEMBERS SAY.

The law creating a Board of Aqueduct Comssioners, for the purpose of supplying the city with ar additional supply of water, attracted much attention in the neighborhood of the City Hall yesterday. James C. pencer and William Dowd, two of the Commissioners ad a consultation with the Mayor in regard to the act. George W. Lane, another one of the Commissioners named in the act, is in Europe, and does not expect to eturn until fall. Controller Campbell, who is also Commissioner, has been ill at Atlantic City, N. J., for a ew days. The Mayor expects to be absent from his flice for several days this week, while repairs are being nade there, in order to get needed rest. not likely that any meeting of the Aqueduct Commission-

In answer to inquiries on the subject, Mayor Edson ald: "Of course, no action will be taken until we re ceive a certified copy of the act. Then we will meet for organization. The bill is not what the city needed, but of course, we will go ahead under it, although I hear that there is some talk of testing its constitutionality."

The act provides that Messrs. Dowd, Lane and Spencer hall hold no other Federal, State or municipal office, exept the office of notary public or Commissioner of Deeds. Mr. Dowd is now a school Commissioner, which office he will probably resign at once. In speaking of the bill be "I would have been glad to see the bill passed in the same shape as approved by the Mayor's Commission I think that there ought to have been four Commission ers who do not hold other responsible offices. However we will go on and do the best we an under the at."

Ex-Judge Spencer, when inquiries were made of him is regard to the subject, said: "I think the bill is a very fair With the exception of the changes in regard to the manner of appointing the Commissioners and the num-ber of them, the bill is the same as the one approved by the Mayor. the city. No political considerations should be allowed to lateriers in this matter. Mr. Thompson has expressed the same opinion."

"Are you in favor of the Quaker Bridge Dam preject!"

"That is a question on which I have not yet reached a conclusion. I think the first thing the Board should do is to build a new storage reservoir for use in the present water system. That should be built, I believe, at Sodom, without delay, 4 I believe the I Commissioners are all of the same opinion on the matter. That reservoir will be begun at once. If the Quaker Bridge Dam is built for use as a reservoir, the aqueduct should enter it at a considerable alstance from the dam, so that the water could be let off and the present Croton Dam used when necessary, for purposes of repairs, cleaning, etc. The Commission is confined under the law to the Croton watershed, so that it cannot consider the Ramape or any other outside project."

The salaries of the three Aqueduct Commissioner of Public Works are to be fixed by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, but the salary must not exceed $8,000 per annum. The heads of the various departments having more than one Commissioners. The last clause in the act reads as follows:

THE QUESTION OF BOOKMAKING.

The motion to continue the temporary inunction recently obtained to prevent the police authori-ies from interfering with bookmaking on the racearse at Jerome Park was argued or talked about yes terday before Justice Dononue in the Judge's private room in the Court House. Corporation Counsel An-drews said that the decision of Judge Van Brunt in the Court of Common Pleas, that Van Brunt in the Court of Common Pleas, that bookmaking was within the prohibition against gambling in the act of 1877, was controlling, and should be followed by the Court in this case. An allidayt of a poleoman was read, to the effect that bookmaking was carried on at the park on Wednesday last. The counsel for the defendants denied that there was any bookmaking at Jerome Park on Wednesday and asked time to prepare affidayits to show that the policeman's allidayit was not true. The counsel was given until to-morrow in which to do as he desires.

A COMPLIMENT TO S. S. PACKARD.

CIATION OF PACKHARD'S BUSINESS COLLEGE. A complimentary dinner in honor of S. S. Packard was given at Delmonico's last night by the Alumni Association of Packard's Business College. Besides the guest of the evening there were several Besides the guest of the evening there were several other invited guests prominent in the legal, medical and clerical professions and a special features was the presence of ladies, invited not merely to sit in a cloud of smoke listening to after-dimer speeches, but as guests, even enjoying the pleasure of hearing one of their number respond to the toast "Women in Work." The absence of the accustomed cigars was commented on pleasantly by several speak. ers. While the menu was being served an orchestra rendered popular music. The walls were tastefully de orated with the National colors, while a portrait of Mr. Packard was hung near the table where he sat. H. H. Bowman, president of the Alumni Association. presided. At his right sat Mr. Packard, and at his lef presided. At his right sat Mr. Facatro, and a half-channesy M. Depew. The Rev. Dr. Newman, the Rev. Robert Collyer and Judge Noah Davis sat at the head of the other tables. Among the hundred guests, nearly half of whom were ladies, were, besides those mentioned: Judge and Mrs. F. J. Fithian, Judge and Mrs. R. B. Cowing, the Rev. William Lloyd and Mrs. Lloyd, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Dowling, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Croly, Mrs. J P. Newman, N. Dana Wells, Miss Fanny B. Cle Major J. M. Bundy, Mr. and Mrs. William Allen Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clag-horn, T. G. and Miss Annie J. Dubois, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Metcalf, Dr. T. S. and Miss Emma Ring, Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Streeter, Dr. C. I. Pardee, Colonel T. W. Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Morris S. Wise, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. N. Hunt and

Mr. Bowman introduced for his first speaker the president of the institution, of which many of the guests were graduates, by "a man who entered a field which he found untilled, and which in the last quarter of a century he has tilled, and he is justly entitled to feel that his life has been a success." When the applause which greeted Mr. Packard had ceased. his health was pledged in a glass of water, and he then gave pltasant pledged in a class of water, and he then gave pltasant reminiscences connected with the lives of some of the guests, relating, among other things, an interview which he had in Chicago a dozen years ago, when he was writing a series of letters from the West for THE TRIBUNE. "Mr. Depew," he said, "was given for his tosts. The politics of the future, because he knows nothing of the politics of the present. If he had he would now be one of our United States Senators." [Applause.] Mr. Packard, in referring to the toast assigned to Mrs. Groly, said tast everything was better for having a woman connected with it—a school or a dinner. Dr. Newman spoke of "twenty-six years ago," when he was preaching in Albany, where Mr. Packard began his Commercial College, and at which he delivered the opening address.

Newman spoke of "twenty-six years ago," when he was preaching in Albany, where Mr. Packard began his Commercial college, and at which he delivered the opening address.

Judge Dayls in responding to the sentiment "Honesty the only policy," said that his son must pursue a business education whatever his future may be—ciergy, man or lawyer. He praised Mr Packard for introducing young women into his school, adding: "I have no patience with the individuals and the college authorities who shut the doors of their institutions in the face of young women eager to obtain an education, and then complain that the ladies are leading frivolous lives. For such men I say 'honesty is the best policy.' I was educated in a common school, where my most successful competitor was not a boy, but a girl, and I am glad that among the graduales of this institution there are so many ladies. It is a beautiful feature also, this having ladies at dinner here. There has been less drinking and igno emosing, which is a great reliof to those obliged to respond to the toast." (Applause.)

"The Battle of Life," was the subject given Mr. Collyer, and in his characteristic and winning manner he related an incident from his life which occurred twenty-six years ago, when the college was founded. He said in part: "The fight of the battle of life is a great story. And I am reminded to-night of the hard and bitter struggle that I had in 1857. It was, as you know, the year of the panie, and I fell out of work in October. I could do nothing at the anvil and did not until May. We had such a lot of children I did not know what I snould do to support them and the good mother and myself; but the miller, the landlord and the green were kind to us, offering to liet us have what we needed, paying when we could. I went out on the road and broke stones, and fought the wolf from the door as well as I could, and got in debt as little as possible, and now I know what is now that a lagrent men in work shoes, and fought the wolf from the door as well as I could, and go men employed in the shad-fisheries along the Hudson River, from Weenawken to Yonkers. were paid off yesterday and went home. Fishing virtually ceased on Thursday morning, when after examining the nets they were unfastened from the poles and ed in the boats. The poles themselves were then removed by the aid of the rider, which is a stout spat braced to the poles by a serew, in the fashion of an ordinary spar of a vessel. When the poles are being sunk the men get upon this rider and stamp vehemently together, keeping time. When the poles are removed the action is the opposite, and the men put their shoulders under the rider and hoist it upward. On Friday the poles were stacked away, and the nets cleaned and dried and put by for next year's fishing. For though in bad years the men who engage in shad fishing generally declare that it is the last time, that the Hudson is no place for fishing anyhow, and that they will never try it again, yet as soon as the season comes round they yield to the fascination, buy new nets, get a fresh provision of hickory poles, and engage gangs of men. The year has been a bad one in consequence of the cold weather. The fish did not arrive until late, and the big uns began about May 8. At that time the rows averaged 350 fish. In each row there are thirty nets; thereore this is not quite twelve fish to a net.

Old fishermen who profess to remember when there were no steamers in the river, except Colonel Stevens's ferries and those lower down at Jersey City, say that eighty and even ninety shad have been taken from a ferries and those lower down at Jersey City, say that eighty and even ninety shad have been taken from a single net. Even this diminished figure of 350 shad to a row did not continue for more than a few days, for there was a return of cold weather, and the shad dropped off te fifty in a row, and at hast to fifteen or sixteen. If the prices had not kept up, there would have been a considerable loss, for shad-fishing is a costly operation in such deep water. Some of the poles are 110 feet long, and it is these poles that are constantly being carried away by the steamers, so that every morning several have to be replaced. The Ludlow family, of Weehawken, had seven rows of shad-poles this season, and it is calculated that each row costs for its equipment and maintenance $500, so that the outfit cost the family $3,500 beforea single fish was taken.

The demand for North River shad was so great this year that at the time of the big runs the price did not materially weaken, so that in those few good days considerable money was made. Had there been no return of cold weather after the beginning of the warm spell the Ludlows calculate that they would have made enough money to pay for several bad years. For while the increase of population, and especially of rich people, keeps up the prices wonderfully. It is known to connoiseurs that North River shad is not as other shad; just as Kennebec salmon is not as good as California salmon. In those days of old, when eighty and ninety fish were taken from a single net, it was impossible often to sell the catch at any price. But now there is such a steady demand for North River shad is not as other shad; just as Kennebec salmon is not as good as California salmon. In those days of old, when eighty and ninety fish were taken from a single net, it was impossible often to sell the catch at any price. But now there is such a steady demand for North River shad is not as other shad; just as Kennebec salmon is not as good as California salmon. In those days of old, when eighty and ninety

BUTLER AND THE BOARD OF BEALTH.

BOSTON, June 2 .- Governor Butler having refused to sign the warrant for the payment of the monthly pay rolls of various State institutions under the charge of the State Board of Health, ex-Governor Talbot, of the Board, has addressed a long letter to the Governor, reinforced by the opinion of ex-Governor Gaston, to the effect that officers appointed by the Board are not required to take the oath of office, as claimed by the Governor. Ex-Governor Talbot's letter calls the Governor's attention to the fact that many dependent employes, some of them women, have their pay withheld, and are needy creditors of the Commonwealth, whose claims the State by law is bound to respect. The Board is unable to say whether the Governor's action is based on the advice of his connect, or is the result of his own indgment, and also wishes to ascortain whether his action is based on the form or substance of the claims in question. The Board holds that the Governor has no right to withhold his approval of claims due an appointee of the Board, and the letter hints that legal prosecution may be requisite to enforce these claims.

The State Board of Health to-day adopted an order declaring the office of Assistant Superintendent of the Almshouse, which has hitherto been held by Thomas G. Marsh, vacant. held, and are needy creditors of the Commonwealth.

FEATURES OF THE CHICAGO MARKETS.

EFFECT OF THE M'GEOCH-FOWLER TROUBLE-WHEAT, CORN AND PROVISIONS.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE. 1 CHICAGO, June 2 .- The committee to decide on McGeoch's sensational charges against Fowled Brothers' lard did not meet to-day, Early on Monday morning the committee will go to Fowler Brothers packing house and inspect the disputed lard and then— well, nobody knows what will be to pay then. There are weil, nobody knows what will be to pay them. There are now some very funny difficulties presenting themselves. A year or more ago a dispute like the present one occurred between Fowler Brothers and Armour. It established a precedent, and over this precedent McGeoch and his friends and the committee are to-night very much worried. Fowler Brothers, inasunah as they then were, as McGeoch is now, running a "deal" in lard, took the stand that Armour tendered them adultersted staff. The charges were pretendered them adulterated stuff. The charges were pre-cisely similar to McGeoch's. The matter went before the Inspection Committee, and this body consulted Messrs. Deut & Black, the attorneys of the Board, as to how far their investigation should go. These attorneys advised the committee that its investigation should go no further than the inspectors; that the lard might be looked at, tasted and examined, as it is usually by experts; but that chemical analyses, or the taking of outside testimony, was not permissible under the Board of Trade wiles.

Trade rules. McGeoch and the committee men-who are, by the by, very friendly to the Scotchman-have been scouring the city for an attorney who will advise them differently. If the old precedent is abided by, what will become of McGooch's chemists' analysis and the affidavits of Fowler's discharged employes † Fowler Brothers to-day sold out the lard for which payment was refused, and rendered bills to the different people in interest. McGeoch returned the bill, refusing to pay the difference, and announcing that he should hold Fowler Frothers responsi-ble in their sales just as if no tender had been made. It is certain that the whole matter wift on Tuesday go before the directors, before whom McGeoch will charge Fowler Brothers with uncommercial conduct.

The very bold step taken by McGoch in refusing Fow ler's lard, even at the risk of disclosing his own hand, has satisfied most people that the Scotchman is as deter-mined as ever to "corner" lard, and that he has his blood up. The experience of this market with this surly speculator has been that when he begins an operation, whether to corner wheat or pork or lard, or to "bear" it, he carries out his plans even if it costs local crowd is satisfied that the Scotchman is still deep in lard, every one is very much afraid of it-afraid to sell or to buy. People on both sides of the market, alarmed at the effect of the Fowler-Mo Geoch row, have closed out-the "longs" on the score that the reputation of lard will be injured and the price lowered; the "shorts" on the score that McGeoch is mad and is likely any day to advance the market, by the sheer force of his dollars, half a cent a pound and ruin hair the The speculative markets continue dull. Wheat conpound and ruin half the "shorts." tinues neither very strong nor very weak. July advanced to-day to $1.164, but closed at $1.154; and these quotations were respectively the highest and lowest prices of the day. The disand lowest prices of the day. The distant options are less sensitive to the little market influences than the near months. September fluctuated within 14 cent of last night, June stopped at $1 13, July at $1 1514, September at $1 167s.

Corn continues its very slow advance. To day it went up 14.78 ac a bushel. A good many commission menthink they see about the corn-pit signs that some rich clique is buying it up. They do not pretend to have special information, but are solicitous because of the steady advance in the face of very large receipts, because of the very heavy shipments and because there seems to be great "shortage" out and comparatively little corn for sale. Within the week half a dozen influential commission noises have written their customers advising them not to go "short"; that it looked very much as if somebody was getting under corn. June corn closed at 57 and July at 581s conts.

Provisions of all kinds—pork, lard and short ribs—continue to go down, partly because of the liberal receipt of hogs, and partly because the provision market is deserted by outsiders. There were 104,283 hogs received this week, 2,400 more than were received a week are. The provision stocks were made public to-day, and the statement shows 219,555 barrels of pork and 132,105 tierces of lard—an increase of 25,000 tierces of lard and a decrease of 21,000 barrels of pork for the thirty days. July pork closed to-day at $19 32 ½ and July lard at 11.77 ½—the former 10 ceuts per barrel and the latter 5 cents per hundred lower than yesterday.

At the office of Fowler Brothers, No. 15 State-st., who are charged by Peter McGeoch, the large speculator at Chicago, with adulterating lard, it was said yesterday that no member of the firm was in this city. Anderson Fowler had gone to Chicago on Friday, and no one was left at the office here authorized to speak for him. The manager of a prominent lard firm said of the matter; This question of lard adulteration is by no means a new one. This present outcropping of it in Chicago is only a part of a history which would prove very interesting. Tell you something about it? Oh, no! That's not to be told yet, and you won't find anybody in the lard trade who will tell you it either. Fowler Bro h ers have forced McG such to take their lard. We are not in the fight, but we are awaiting developments. truth is we have been doing very little business on ac count of this very question of adulteration, and other firms have been following a similar course. This is a fight between Chicago and New-York. We have known of lard adulteration in Chieago and have been lying back until matter came into shape for action. You may yet see some in eresting developments in this fight."

There was a flutter of excitement among the lard prokers at the Produce Exchange in consequence of Mr. McGeoch's charges, and prices fell a trifle on the receipt of telegrams that McGeoch had consented to receive the lard he had refused. The result of McGeoch's charges lard he had refused. The result of McGeoch's charges is watched for with interest by the trade, especial interest being directed to the possible action of the Chicago Board of Trade, George C. Naphays, of Naphays & Sons, said that it had been known in the trade that there was much adulterated lard in the market. The most common articles for adulteration were stearing, tailow and cottonseed oil. Opinion on the merits of the case as between McGeoch and Towler Brothers varied at the Produce Exchange, some browers claiming that the report of adulteration was put into circulation purely for speculative purposes.
